Quest & Solution

Dear Sree,

The way things are going in my organization, I feel that I don't belong here. But this is my dream company and I am really confused what I need to do next. Could you please help – Imran

Dear Imran

If you are unhappy with your job, decades of research show that you have a four choices to make : Exit, Voice, Persistence and Neglect.

Exit: This you can choose to remove yourself from the situation altogether. For example, quitting a miserable job. Voice: This choice involves actively trying to improve the situation. E.g., Approaching your boss with ideas for enriching your job. You can also try jobcrafting. If you have a supportive boss, you can get help to reconnect with your dream company.

Persistence: Here, you bear the pain like working hard even though you feel you don't belong. Neglect: This choice is where you stay in the current situation but reduce your effort.

- The 4 options can be seen as a trade-off between Control (Do you believe you can effect change?) and Commitment (Do you care enough to try?).
- If you feel you can't make a difference, then you can persist if you're committed or you can neglect if you aren't.
- If you feel you can make a difference, then you can voice out if you're committed and you'd quit if you aren't.

And remember, this model can be applied not just to your job but to any difficult situation in life.
